

About Kim Mo Im

Dr. Kim Mo Im is a pioneer and an evolutionary leader in various areas for social and health development. She was the first nurse in Korea appointed to Minister of Health. She was a member of the World Health Organization Expert Panel of Nursing for 20 years and ICN President from 1989 to 1993.

Her contribution is aptly described by many international awards including the WHO Health Prize and Nightingale Medal. Dr. Kim donated all her personal assets to Yonsei University and, in her honor, the University established a nursing research institute bearing her name.

In 2015, Dr. Kim received the Yu Ilhan Prize, which is given biannually to a person who has made significant contributions to national and social advancement while leading a most exemplary life for all to emulate. Dr. Kim decided to donate the entire prize money in the amount of $100,000 combined with additional funds from the Kim Mo Im Nursing Advancement Fund and donations from her personal assets. Her tremendous generosity has led to the establishment of this new ICN award in collaboration with the Kim Mo Im Institute for the Studies of Nursing at Yonsei University.

Kim Mo Im Policy Innovation and Impact Award 2021

About the Kim Mo Im Policy Innovation and Impact Award

- The award is granted once every two years to a nurse who has demonstrated policy innovation and impact.
- The award is presented at the ICN Congress
- The award focuses on a policy related to a key global issue of the time related to ICN's established strategy.
- The award recipient will be invited to be one of the keynote speakers at the Kim Mo Im Policy Innovation and Impact Lecture at the ICN CNR or Congress.
- The awardee will receive a US$10,000 grant (in two installments) for advancing the innovative policy project. The purpose of this award is to provide support to continue to advance and/or enhance the innovation.

Eligibility Criteria

1. A nominee must be a nurse according to the ICN definition and qualified and authorised in her/his country to practise as a nurse.
2. A nominee must be a member in good standing of a national nurses' association (NNA) in membership with the International Council of Nurses (ICN).
3. A nominee must demonstrate an outstanding achievement and impact in a policy related to nursing and/or health and public policy innovation regarding health care and/or education policy.
4. The specific policy innovation must focus on a key global issue and be related to the established strategy of ICN.
5. A group of two or three nurses who have collaborated on the same project may be nominated together as a group nominee (the project leader identified in the nomination form will represent the group at the ICN Congress).
6. Members of the Boards of Directors of ICN, FNIF and ICNF and any employees of these organisations may not make or support nominations, nor be nominated themselves.
7. Applications will be evaluated against the four following criteria:
 - Demonstrated achievement and impact in policy related to nursing and/or health and public policy regarding health care and/or education
 - The global impact or application of the policy innovation
 - Significance and level of the policy innovation
 - Current and potential impact

These criteria will be assessed by the Selection Committee on the basis of the information provided in the official nomination form.
